COMMUNICATION SKILLS	I have excellent ability to cope with the pressure, particularly in situations of close deadlines: the experience gained over the years has convinced me that a relaxed environment is the best one for the development of ideas and solutions. Working for a multinational company gave me the opportunity to interact with people from different cultures and to gain the flexibility to establish positive relationships during both the problem solving and the development phases. In interpersonal relationships I prefer informal ways, however respecting the roles that an organization requires.
ORGANISATIONAL SKILLS	My current role involves the management of the product (directly interacting with the customers), the allocation of the team activities and the supervision of the solutions adopted: doing so I consider the contribution of each person constructive and significant – “cooperation” is in my opinion the main resource of a team. Nevertheless, during the execution phase I commit myself to maintaining a coordinating and supporting role for the achievement of the objectives, establishing solutions or strategies to be pursued.
TECHNICAL SKILLS	I've developed solutions and administration UIs for financial platforms in C/C++ using real-time and commercial databases. I've worked in the Core Architecture Team responsible in the project and implementation of the .NET toolkit adopted by most of the desktop front-ends of my company. I've taken part in the porting of legacy solutions to the Microsoft .NET framework using C/C++, C++/CLI e C#. I'm currently technical lead of the Desktop Solution of my company and I'm involved in the design and in the optimization of the Trading Client written in WPF and C#; in a Windows environment my team integrates desktop technologies (Win32, .NET and .NET Core) and Web technologies (HTML5/JavaScript), defines and implements UI/UX standards.
